Tu B'Shvat Seudah

We will celebrate Tu B'Shvat - New Year for Trees - with a special fruity meal. This juicy feast will be graced by a special guest speaker, wine, whisky and the usual unique blend of Clayhall song and banter. It takes place on Shabbos 3rd February and follows Minchah at 4.00 pm. The good news is that it is traditional to drink four cups of wine starting with white wine and then gradually moving towards full red! Confused? Then come along and find out why.

Champagne Purim!

Purim very conveniently falls on Sunday 4th March with the first Megillah reading on Motsei Shabbos 3rd March. A champagne breakfast on the Sunday will include great food, lots of drink and some frivolous frivolity! What about the rumour of a thespian event involving the Rabbi and Honorary Officers? Never!

The Blessing of Ephraim and Menashe

Yaacov, realizing he is about to die, gathers his 12 sons to receive a blessing. But first, he calls upon two of his grandchildren – Yosef's sons Ephraim and Menashe to receive blessings. Why would Yaacov place priority on blessing grandchildren over children? The Sages explain that even more than the joy of having children is the joy of having grandchildren. Why is this so? Most creatures in the world have parent-child relationships like a mother lion protecting her cubs. But only the human being has a concept of grandchildren, of perpetuation beyond a single generation. This is an effect of our spiritual soul which is rooted in infinity. Being a grandparent therefore connects us deeply to our uniqueness as human beings. There is further significance to Yaacov's blessings. One of the most beautiful customs in Jewish life is for parents to bless their children at the start of the Friday night Shabbos meal. Girls receive the blessing: "May G-d make you like the matriarchs Sarah, Rivkah, Rachel and Leah." Boys, meanwhile, are blessed "to be like Ephraim and Menashe." What happened to the patriarchs Avraham, Yitzchak and Yaacov? Why were Ephraim and Menashe chosen instead as the subjects of this important tradition? Ephraim and Menashe were the first set of Jewish brothers who did not fight. Avraham's two sons – Yitzchak and Yishmael - could not get along. The next generation of Yitzchak's two sons – Yaacov and Esav - were so contentious that Esav repeatedly sought to kill Yaacov and instructed his descendants to do the same. And even the next generation of Yaacov's sons sold Yosef into slavery in Egypt. Ephraim and Menashe represent a break from this pattern. This explains why Yaacov purposely switched his hands, blessing the younger Ephraim before the older Menashe. He wished to emphasize the point that with these siblings, there is no rivalry. For there is no greater blessing than peace among brothers. (Adapted from an article by Rabbi Shruga Simmons)
